BEST D 2014

We lived through it! The wettest May (and maybe the wettest month) on record ever. Gainesville actually received 28" of rain in May. That is more rain than the entire State received in 2014. Crazy! Thankfully, June is now here and we are expected to have 7 days straight of sunshine. People everywhere are taking their white pasty bodies out to enjoy the sunshine. Don't forget your sunscreen!

May was a pretty epic month for us too as we married off our daughter, Jennifer. Jennifer is actually my step daughter and I occasionally try to lay claim to her too. She is an amazing girl and married an amazing man, Adam Nacci. The newlyweds went away to the Dominican Republic for their vacation and got home back in Texas, just in time to enjoy the last crazy week of rain. Here are a couple of photos of them from the wedding:

I spent an entire month sick with bronchitis and sinusitis from April 30th—current. I am just about to finally kick it and be over it. Seriously, I worked through it, but I went to Urgent Care 3 times and also my family doctor once. Whatever I had was one mean, tough bug. I am still coughing and congested but I believe my Augmentin will win the final battle soon.

Now that our lakes are full again, perhaps you are interested in a 2nd home at Lake Texoma? Check out 152 Bridlepath at www.judiwright.com or 3732 Summit Court in Frisco (great back yard and outdoor entertaining area).

Maybe you want to build a home and are looking for land. I have two lots in a gated community in McKinney (Waterstone Estates) that are 1.4 acres and 1.84 acres and priced at $139,900 and $159,900 each. They can be built on with the builder or bought separately from the builder.

As we enter June, the sun will shine more and the heat will rise. I personally can't wait. It is time for my annual Queen's Quest golf tournament and I am looking forward to taking a few days off work and trying to see if I remember how to play golf. I haven't played in awhile so the tournament could be ugly — keep me in your prayers!

Lastly, we are getting ready to start planning our family vacation for August again this year. We are going to Cleveland for my nephew Jeremy's wedding. We get to meet Bri's family and enjoy Cleveland. After this wedding, we know how fun weddings are and we can't wait. Cleveland, watch out, we are coming for you! I hope your summer is filled with amazing fun and enjoyment!

play street museum

Have you heard about Frisco's newest indoor play space for young children? Play Street Museum is an upscale, educationally focused play area that encourages imaginative play. Kids will have fun for hours pretending and playing in our village. Maybe they want to put out "fires", serve up some burgers at Kenny's Burger Joint, or pick up some groceries at our miniature Kroger. Other activities at play street museum include a huge magnetic ball wall, sensory tables, arts & crafts and tons of different types of building blocks. Parents or guardians are welcome to play along with their children or sit back and relax and watch their children engage in a world that is just their size.

Our open play hours are M-F from 9-5 and Thursday evenings from 5:30-8pm. Admission is $11 per child, ages 1-8. Weekends are reserved for private birthday parties. Play Street Museum is located at the corner of Legacy & Lebanon in Legacy Center between Orange Leaf Frozen Yogurt & Subway.
